Areas of research

Specialization: Philosophy of Science, Formal Epistemology

Competence: Cognitive Science, Decision and Game Theory, Logic, Critical Thinking

Interests: Foundations of Cognitive and Behavioral Sciences, Behavioral Economics, Methodology of Economics and Social Science, History of Science

My ongoing research mainly deals with theories of rationality and of cognitive values as applied to the analysis of scientific and ordinary reasoning. I explore theoretical issues in epistemology and philosophy of science (scientific progress, truthlikeness, information, confirmation theory, and the realism/antirealism debate) in combination with empirical studies in cognitive science (heuristics and biases, nudging, pitfalls in expert judgment, expecially in medical and legal reasoning).
